COLLEGE BOYS TO RESPOND TO CALL

Mexican War Arouses Patriotic Spirit at College and a Call for Volunteers Has Been Issued. Will be Drilled by Ex-Regular.

Fired with patriotic enthusiasm over the prospect of war with Mexico, and desiring to show their willingness to go to the front and engage in actual warfare, a large number of the students of Gettysburg College will respond to a call for volunteers to be issued Saturday morning by Sergeant Adolph Weidenbach, late of the Regular Army.

Mr. Weidenbach is at present a member of the Senior class at college and this week filed his application with the War Department for a commission as an officer over volunteer troops in the event of a call for such soldiers. His application was made in accordance with the policy at Washington to place former Regulars over volunteer troops.

Sergeant Weidenbach will be in command of the one or more companies which will be formed at college upon the response to the local call for volunteers. A canvass of the situation at college indicates that a large number will at once signify their willingness to undergo the training, and daily drills of possibly two hours each will be held. The college authorities are expected to give their assistance in the matter of allowing extra time for this work and the boys will go to it in dead earnest. Mr. Weidenbach is thoroughly serious about the whole affair and it will not be allowed to partake of the nature of play in any sense of the word.

He will give the students the regular training, prescribed by the army for recruits, with which he is thoroughly familiar. All the elements will be treated and preliminary work in maneuvers will be given. He will communicate with the War Department at Washington the work being done here and students showing proficiency will be well taken care of in the event of a call for volunteers, in which case there would be a shortage of trained men for the commissioned and non-commissioned officers.

Sergeant Weidenbach last fall completed a three year enlistment. He entered the army as a private and when his enlistment expired he was battalion sergeant major. Company K, 5th United States Infantry was his command and he was here during the Fiftieth Anniversary celebration during which he was assigned to the camp of newspaper men.

VETERANS OF '98 WILL MEET HERE

Spanish American War Veterans to Hold Meeting here Saturday and Sunday. Local Boys in Reunion. The Program.

The annual reunion of the Fifth Pennsylvania Spanish American War Veterans will be held in Gettysburg on Saturday and Sunday, the first of the survivors of the war of '98 starting to arrive this evening. The attendance is expected to be large, many of the members bringing with them their families.

The business session will be held at two o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Court House, and in the evening at eight o'clock a smoker will be held at headquarters, Hotel Gettysburg. Sunday will be devoted to a tour of the battlefield. Among those expected here for the reunion is Colonel Theodore Burchfield who led the regiment at the time of the war.

Lieutenant Ross Hickok, of Harrisburg, who was first lieutenant of Company M, recruited at Gettysburg, is the president of the association. There are three vice presidents, of whom James G. McIlhenny, of this place, is one. Lieutenant John C. Dunkle, of Huntingdon, is the secretary. Captain Russell, of Company M, is now chief of police in Williamsport but will come for the reunion if possible.

The Fifth Regiment was in camp at Chickamauga for several months at the time of the Spanish War in 1898, and was a part of the great mobilization camp. For months they went through the hardest kind of work to get the raw recruits in training for the actual service at the front which they never saw. Maneuvers, work on the rifle ranges, and other similar military work occupied their time. Typhoid fever appeared and worked havoc among the men, a number of those from Gettysburg becoming ill with the disease.

Few of the Gettysburg company, who left here July 21, 1898, now remain in town. Some of them have since died while the remainder have scattered to various towns more or less distant. It is expected that a number will return for the reunion which is held annually and which Gettysburg will entertain this year for the first time.

NIGHT FIRE

Fire Company out and Plenty of Excitement when Straw Burns.

J. J. Plank left a large wagonload of straw standing in Race Horse Alley in the rear of Chambersburg street Thursday afternoon. At ten o'clock in the evening some one set fire to it and a blaze resulted which brought out the firemen and many citizens. The fire looked threatening for a time as it was close to four or five barns. Brick and metal walls proved effective, however, and no damage other than the destruction of the straw resulted. The absence of wind helped the firemen who put out the blaze with a small plug stream.

LOCAL OPTION FORCES MEET

County Men in Charge of Local Option Campaign Meet and Endorse One Candidate from Each Party for State Legislature.

At an important meeting of the Adams County Committee of the Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon League, on Thursday afternoon, at the Pitzer House, the campaign for local option at the coming primaries was formally begun.

The first action taken by the committee was the endorsement of the following candidates for the Legislature, Republican, Samuel Bream; Democratic, D. C. Rudisill; Washington, S. Gray Bigham.

Following the recommendation of candidates a resolution was passed urging all the pastors of Adams County to preach a sermon on Local Option on the Sunday immediately before the primary election, which occurs on May 19th, or the nearest Sunday convenient and that the pastors publicly at that service recommend the men who have pledged themselves for local option.

Preliminary plans for the campaign were then taken up and Rev. C. F. Floto, of Biglerville, appointed chairman of the campaign. Rev. J. B. Baker, of Gettysburg, was appointed press agent. It was decided to hold meetings in every election district of the county between this and the primary.

The following are the members of the Adams County Committee of the Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon League: Rev. F. E. Taylor, Rev. J. B. Baker, E. P. Miller, C. S. Reaser, of Gettysburg; Rev. W. K. GOOD HORSEMANSHIP

Lively Chase on Chambersburg Street in which Three Take Part.

No better riding is seen in the "movies" than that which took place on Chambersburg street Thursday afternoon when a horse on which Miss Ruth Shultz, daughter of John Shultz, was riding started to run away. As the horse gathered speed he was urged on by the spurs which kept striking him in the side and only the fact that the young lady is an expert horsewoman saved her from being thrown. John Slaybaugh and Walter Fuhrman, who were riding with Miss Shultz, started in pursuit and a pretty race resulted. Mr. Slaybaugh finally catching the horse on Springs avenue, after which the ride was resumed. The race was watched by a large crowd.

DRIVING ACCIDENT

A horse driven by Mrs. Ephraim Herr and son, of near Greenmount, took fright at a large automobile on Baltimore Hill late Thursday afternoon, made a sudden plunge, breaking part of the harness and ran full tilt out Baltimore street to the home of W. S. Dutta where it took to the pavement, colliding with a tree and damaging the buggy. After the damage was repaired Mrs. Herr and son were able to continue their journey homeward.

QUICK TO HELP MAN IN TROUBLE

Neighbor of Two Taverns Man Turn out in Force to Haul Lumber to Build New Home. Former One Destroyed by Fire.

Fifteen farmers residing in the vicinity of Two Taverns, drove to Hanover Thursday with teams, each taking back a load of lumber and hardware for the erection of a new dwelling for Charles Shanabrook.

The home of Mr. Shanabrook was burned to the ground Sunday night, April 5th. The cause of the fire will probably never be known, as the family were away from home and on their return about 10 o'clock found the house in flames. Everything except the organ and a few chairs was destroyed. Fortunately, the property was covered by insurance. The neighbors took a holiday Thursday morning and hauled sufficient lumber for a new house.

The farmers who assisted in the undertaking were: Daniel Weaver, Ralph Shriver, William Keefeauver, Charles Foulk, J. L. Hann, Addison Horner, Mervin Miller, David Plank, Edward Kiser, Charles King, George Patterson, Elmer March, Charles Harner and Walter Morelock. Mr. Shanabrook was also with them.

APPOINTED PASTOR

Will Preach at Three Methodist Churches in the County.

Dr. George Murray Klepfer, formerly pastor of Allison Methodist Episcopal church in Carlisle, has been appointed by district superintendent, Dr. A. S. Fasick, to take charge of the churches at Orrtanna, Fairfield, and Fountindale. Dr. Klepfer took a retired relation, at the session of the Central Pennsylvania conference last March, on account of impaired health. His health has greatly improved and he feels entirely able for active work again. He spent last Sunday on the charge, speaking at all three appointments. Next Sunday he will preach at Fountindale at 10:00 a. m., at Fairfield at 2:30 p. m., and at Orrtanna at 7:30 p. m. His family will reside in Carlisle, and he will go back and forth. He expects to spend a few weeks in the valley soon, visiting the membership. The arrangement will continue until a permanent pastor can be secured for the charge. Dr. Klepfer has served some of the most important churches in the conference.

DIVES FOR BODY

County Boy Searches for Body of Business Man.

Blaine Walter, a son of H. U. Walter, of Biglerville, a trooper of company B, state police, who was employed as a diver in the United States navy for several years, this week put on a diving suit and went into the Susquehanna river in search of the body of Russell Uhl, missing president of the Pennsylvania Tobacco Company.

The diver's suit was obtained in New York by the Uhl family. Walter will use the suit in exploring the bottom of the river near the place where it is thought Uhl jumped into the stream. Because the river is swollen by freshets and the current is swift, Walter cannot stay under water long at one time.

Two Brigades Sent to Vera Cruz.

FUNSTON IN COMMAND

Huerta Dismisses O'Shaughnessy and Recalls Envoy.

THE BORDER IS THREATENED

Actions of Federals and Rebels Causes Drastic Action

Washington, April 24.—The first movement of United States troops into Mexico started when Secretary of War Garrison ordered a brigade of infantry and some artillery stationed at Texas City, Tex., to proceed at once for Galveston and embark for Vera Cruz.

Brigadier General Frederick Funston has been assigned to command. The troops were ordered to the seaport now held by the United States to strengthen the naval forces.

The orders caused a flurry of preparation, but little remains to be done except to get up steam in the ship's engines, as the brigade has been ready for three days and the transports have taken on board provisions for two months and 800 coffins.

Three regiments of infantry at San Francisco and the artillery at Fort Riley, Kan., were ordered to report to General Bliss for service along the Mexican border.

With the movement of Constitutional leaders and their commands on Juarez and the significant cessation of hostilities between the rebels and the Federals, President Wilson and the heads of departments faced another serious complication that has arisen since the capture of Vera Cruz.

Following the Carranza letter, demanding the withdrawal of United States armed forces at once, the latest move on the part of the rebel forces is significant and created a stir among the cabinet officials, resulting in a conference between the president and the war chiefs.

The situation is grave, according to the reports, and the possible amalgamation of the forces of the two factions in turbulent Mexico presents an aspect that is little short of warlike and necessitated immediate action on the part of the United States.

Reports showed that the movement of the rebel forces was general along the Mexican border and that Carranza had been urged by his most loyal followers to bury his factional differences and join in the protection of the national honor. To further show their antipathy for the United States, trainloads of troops are moving on the border, and there is likely to be an attack at any moment.

The war department has been notified of this warlike condition and orders were issued and additional cavalry, infantry and artillery were sent from Fort Bliss to reinforce the international brigades.

Secretary of War Garrison dispatched an order to the headquarters of the southern division of the army at Fort Sam Houston, at San Antonio, Texas, ordering an embargo against the shipment of arms and ammunition into Mexico. This means that the embargo has been established.

Diplomatic relations between the United States and Huerta's government are completely severed. Senor Alcala, Mexican charge d'affaires in Washington, notified the secretary of state that he had been recalled.

The next step by Huerta is expected to be a declaration of war, which is usual at the end of such a crisis.

Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American charge d'affaires at Mexico City, has already been handed his passports by Huerta, and is preparing to leave Mexico.

The passports were delivered to Alcala on Thursday. The Mexican embassy let it be known that Alcala will go to Montreal, where he will remain as the representative of his government.

Alcala said that no foreign representative had yet been designated to handle Mexican affairs, but that the situation would probably be turned over to the French embassy.

Secretary of State Bryan announced that an arrangement has been made with the Brazilian government whereby the archives of the American embassy in Mexico City will be turned over to the Brazilian legation. Mr. Bryan made this announcement after a conference with Ambassador De Gama.

Huerta's handing of passports to Mr. O'Shaughnessy is regarded as a most sensational development in the situation, as it was believed to forecast a declaration of war on the part of Huerta. The giving of passports to a minister or charge d'affaires, in most cases, though not invariably, immediately precedes a declaration of war.

CARRANZA WANTS U. S. TO EVACUATE

Says Seizure of Vera Cruz is Violation of Sovereignty.

El Paso, Tex., April 24.—Demanding that the United States immediately withdraw its forces from Mexican territory on the ground that the seizure of Vera Cruz involves an act of war against the entire Mexican nation, and intimating in terms not to be mistaken that a refusal to do this will be followed by war, General Venustiano Carranza, "first chief" of the Constitutionalists, served what amounts to an ultimatum on President Wilson.

As an alternative proposition, General Carranza suggests that, after withdrawing its forces, the United States recognize the Constitutionalists government and then present to it a demand for reparation for the insult offered to the American flag at Tampico.

If this is done, General Carranza makes it clear, full reparation in the way of a salute to the American colors will be made.

General Carranza's message came as a response to a message sent to him by Secretary of State Bryan, which did not call for any answer at all.

There is no mistaking the import of General Carranza's message. It is regarded as a flat declaration of war if his demands are not acceded to. He does not say that he will join hands with General Huerta or any Federal force, but his meaning is clear.

SEIZE REBEL MUNITIONS

U. S. Soldiers Take Cartridges in El Paso Warehouse.

El Paso, Tex., April 24.—A detachment of the Twentieth United States Infantry seized 255,000 Mauser cartridges consigned to the Constitutional government. The seizure took place in the warehouse of Gutierrez & Welardo.

At the moment that the American troops entered the warehouse and declared that war munitions could not be taken to Juarez the shipment was being inspected by an officer representing General Villa.

It is said that the Constitutionalists have more than a million rounds of ammunition in El Paso and are planning to smuggle it into Juarez. Several squads of troops are searching the lower section of the city.

Many Merchant Ships Offered.

Washington, April 24.—Many offers of merchant ships for use as naval auxiliaries are being made to the navy department. Enterprising ship brokers in the larger foreign ports have been offering craft that appear to be suitable for American naval use, and are forwarding offers to the navy department under proper arrangements to get their own commissions if sales or charters are effected.

Surgeons Sent to Front.

Washington, April 24.—At the direction of President Wilson two surgeons of the public health service were ordered to join the American naval forces in Mexico. They are Surgeon J. M. Gutierrez, now at Key West, and Surgeon R. H. Von Emdorf, now at Mobile.

Colored Men Organize.

Knoxville, Tenn., April 24.—Colored citizens here have begun organizing a battalion of volunteer troops for service in Mexico. Believing that colored men are best adapted for service in such a climate as Mexico, they expect to be called out among the first if volunteers are mustered.

ROUT MEXICANS

Are Driven From Shelter of Their Breastworks.

MORE FIGHTING EXPECTED

Force Led By Major Butler Makes First Move to Capture Railroad Bridges.

Washington, April 24.—American marines and bluejackets gained possession of the breastworks three miles inland from Vera Cruz.

This position is on the railroad to Mexico City, and had been in the possession of Huerta's soldiers since the United States forces took possession of the city.

The news of the engagement was flashed to Washington in a dispatch from Rear Admiral Fletcher, in command of the land forces at Vera Cruz. He gave no details. There was no mention of any casualties among the United States forces.

The force which charged the breastworks and routed the hostile Mexicans is under the command of Major Smedley Darlington Butler, of West Chester, Pa., a son of Congressman Thomas S. Butler. Major Butler saw service before in the Philippines and in the march on Peking, China, by the Allies.

Major Butler was dispatched on outpost duty with a detachment of marines and bluejackets to a position a few miles beyond the western limits of Vera Cruz on the railroad. They took field guns with them. Many of the men were drawn from the Panama battalion, formerly commanded by Major Butler.

This reconnoitering force reported as still intact the two bridges to be seized in the American campaign. One is ten miles and one eighteen miles from Vera Cruz. Officers at Vera Cruz reported that these bridges must be protected if Vera Cruz is to be a base of further operations, because they could not be rebuilt if destroyed.

Dispatches from press sources say both Rear Admiral Fletcher and Captain William R. Rush, of the battleship Florida, in charge of the land forces, declare themselves well satisfied with the manner in which the positions have been occupied by the American forces.

Lieutenant Commander Allen Buchanan, of the Florida, has charge of that part of the city along the piers and to the central portions of the city.

To the left of Lieutenant Commander Buchanan and across the entire southern side of the city, Captain Edwin A. Anderson, of the New Hampshire, is in command. Both of these officers have forces of bluejackets.

The western part of the city, the largest area, is handled by marines under Colonel Neville.

All these officers are held responsible for the restoration of normal conditions in their districts.

The work of sanitation and policing of the city generally was taken up. The city was not badly damaged by the fire from the warships, as the shells were not thrown indiscriminately. Broken doors and windows and scarred walls are the only outward evidence of the fighting that has occurred.

A complete search of the houses revealed a number of bodies of Mexicans, but no American dead or injured have been found beyond those already sent on board the Solace.

The burning of the Mexican dead began at noon. It was found impossible to bury the victims, and Admiral Fletcher will take every step necessary to prevent an outbreak of disease.

The navy department announced that the total killed in the occupation of Vera Cruz was fifteen and seventy-one wounded.

Those killed in Wednesday's fighting were: Rufus Perry, private, U. S. M. C.; L. O. Fried, ordinary seaman; W. I. Watson, ordinary seaman; F. P. Delowry, seaman; A. S. Strewn, ordinary seaman; G. A. Smith, ordinary seaman; C. G. Deafabr, gunner's mate, third class; Frank Devourick, ordinary seaman.

U. S. Sailor Kills Marine.

Vera Cruz, Mex., April 24.—One of the American marines was killed by a young bluejacket. The sailor was on sentry duty and became excited when he saw a figure move towards him out of the darkness. He forgot his instructions to challenge three times and fired immediately, the marine falling dead.

California Militia Sent to the Border.

San Francisco, April 24.—Governor Hiram W. Johnson ordered nine militia companies from San Diego to the Mexican border. The order followed appeals from San Diego and border towns, and a statement from Major W. C. Davis, commanding the border patrol, that the federal troops there were inadequate for full protection.

British Warned Out of Mexico.

El Paso, Tex., April 24.—British subjects in Mexico were warned to leave immediately. The warning came from the British ambassador, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, at Washington, to H. C. Myles, British consul here, who at once wired to consuls in Mexico. There are about 700 Britons in Mexico.

MORRO CASTLE SAILS WITH 800 MARINES

Thousands Cheer as Vessel Departs For Vera Cruz.

Philadelphia, April 24.—Cheered by a patriotic crowd of between 8000 and 9000 persons, who stood on adjoining wharves and flanked the shore of League Island, the transport Morro Castle sailed from the Philadelphia navy yard bearing the Twentieth regiment of 800 marines, under orders for Vera Cruz.

The soldiers, standing on the decks, cheered in return and waved their hands to those on shore. Parting messages were shouted across the water as the vessel drew farther and farther from the wharf.

Women and girls alternately wiped their eyes and then, letting the tears run unheeded, waved their handkerchiefs in encouragement to the boys bound to the scene of hostilities and danger.

An impressive incident occurred as the marines boarded the Morro Castle, all loaded with provisions, stores and ammunition. Twenty-five gray and bent veterans of the Civil War lined up alongside the gangplank and saluted as the detachments comprising the newly formed regiment marched by.

FRANCIS JOSEPH HAS RELAPSE

Aged Ruler in Austria is Reported Dead in Paris.

Berlin, April 24.—A private dispatch received here from Vienna said that the condition of Emperor Francis Joseph was causing intense alarm.

His fever was rising rapidly and the attending physicians were unable to check his cough, which was causing great weakness. The emperor stubbornly refused to be moved from his chamber into sunnier rooms.

Paris, April 24.—It is reported on the Bourse that Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria died.

Michigan Reaches Vera Cruz.

Vera Cruz, Mex., April 24.—When the battleship Michigan arrived here from Philadelphia the marines and sailors were singing. Admiral Badger heard the singing and signalled Captain Niblack, of the Michigan, to have it stopped, conveying the information at the same time that the bodies of the marines and sailors who lost their lives in the first battle were aboard the Prairie.

PLAN UPRISING IN MEXICO CITY

Diaz Followers Await an Opportune Moment.

SCHEME LONG UNDER WAY

Have Perfected Arrangement Against Huerta as Soon as His Fall Is Expected.

El Paso, Texas, April 24.—Advices from Mexico City state that the followers of Porfirio Diaz and the friends of his nephew, General Felix Diaz, have perfected arrangements for an uprising against Huerta as soon as the fall of the present dictator is assured.

Ex-President Porfirio Diaz, now in Europe, has no part in the plans and is only partly cognizant of them. Felix Diaz is living in New York and will not leave there unless the coup is a success.

It is not known just what men in Mexico City are in the Diaz plot against Huerta. Almost all of thecientificos, the men of the old Diaz regime, have been banished by the dictator, imprisoned or enforced to flee the country. The present Porfirista leaders are known only to General Diaz and a few of his circles.

This latest plot was formed after the United States government, through Secretary Bryan, had declined to support General Diaz in his claims to the Mexican presidency. Felix Diaz wished guarantees from the American government and declared that with these he would be able to go into Mexico, establish peace and set up a stable government until elections could be held. A man close to General Diaz said:

"There is no foundation for the belief that Carranza, Villa and Huerta or their followers will ever unite against the United States. They do not need to. They can simply cease fighting each other and all let drive at the Americans separately; and that they will do so Carranza's latest message demanding that the Americans evacuate Vera Cruz is the proof."

"But the supporters of General Diaz now in Mexico City—Porfiristas as we call them—are thoroughly capable and will know how to seize the moment when Huerta begins to totter to a fall. They expect then to start a popular uprising, make themselves masters of the capital, and with Mexico City in their hands appeal again to Washington for support and recognition."

"It is not the intention of General Diaz or his supporters that he shall be president of Mexico by any means, however unscrupulous. That would be pleasing, but this cause is not one of personal ambition. The desire of General Diaz, as of his father and their followers, is to save his country from a further reign of terror or a long war of conquest."

REFUGEES ON WARSHIPS

Hostile Attitude of Mexicans Causes Stampede to Seaports.

Tampico, April 24.—Hundreds of American and other foreign refugees are boarding ships in the harbor here, under the direction of Rear Admiral Mayo.

Every train entering Tampico is loaded with refugees. Already every ship in the harbor is filled to its capacity. There are 600 on the Connecticut alone. Many more are expected from Tuxpan, a port about seventy-five miles south of Tampico.

The Federal and the rebel forces are reported to have united to defend the city in case of an attack by the United States forces. This, together with the hostile attitude of the Mexican civilians, is causing much anxiety among foreigners.

Reliable advices from Mexico City say the anti-American feeling there is reaching the danger point, and that many of the Americans remaining in the city, estimated at about 1000, are feeling to the United States embassy for protection.

At the embassy is a guard of between sixty and one hundred marines. These would be able to protect Americans from any mob violence, but they would not be able to stand off any attack by a considerable number of troops.

The last message from Charge d'Affaires O'Shaughnessy said that he expected to leave Mexico City at once.

Rear Admiral Badger sent the Esperanza with about four hundred refugees, to Galveston, Tex., where they will be landed. The Esperanza will then return for more. Admiral Badger will charter the steamer Mexico City peranza with about four hundred refugees away from Tampico. The number of American refugees to arrive at Galveston would aggregate 2000, he estimated.

Federals and Rebels Unite.

Brownsville, Tex., April 24.—Hostilities between Mexican Federals and Constitutionalists, fighting for the possession of Monterey, the largest city of northern Mexico, have ceased, according to reports here, and leaders of the two armies conferred under a flag of truce on the situation existing between the United States and Mexico. It is reported that the capture of Vera Cruz has caused the Mexican war factions to unite in common cause against the United States.

GENERAL BLISS.

Ready For Action.

The moment things look gloomy on the border and the rebels ally themselves with the federal troops General Bliss is ready to take a hand. The United States soldiers are anxious for some action. Some of them have been on the border for many months and never allowed to cross. The men under Bliss are in excellent shape for war today. He also has charge of the many refugees driven from Mexico during the fighting between the rebels and Federals at Juarez and other points.

VILLA MAKING FOR JUAREZ

Rebel Says He Could Teach "Gringos" a Lesson.

El Paso, Tex., April 24.—General Pancho Villa, the rebel leader, is reported to have declared at Chihuahua, before setting out for Juarez, that he could lead 12,000 men in El Paso within forty-eight hours, and that it might be wise to teach the "gringos" a lesson at the start.

General Carranza's reply to President Wilson caused greater excitement in El Paso than did the taking of Vera Cruz, for it was interpreted to mean war between Mexico and the United States.

Telegrams from many parts of rebel territory poured in on Carranza, urging that factional differences be subordinated to the necessity of protecting the national honor.

Practically every rebel leader of El Paso and Juarez met at the river and signed a note to Carranza, congratulating him on what they termed his patriotic attitude.

Foreigners are reported flocking to the railroads in Mexico on their way to the United States.

Rebel Troops Arrive in Juarez.

Juarez, Mex., April 24.—Four hundred rebel troops from Chihuahua arrived in Juarez, bringing the strength of the garrison to 900 men. General Villal will arrive later with his personal escort of 200 men. Villa set out from Chihuahua for Juarez.

TAX FOR WAR EXPENSES

Underwood Bills Would Net More Than $100,000,000 a Year.

Washington, April 24.—A stamp tax measure from which the government hopes to raise $40,000,000 and a tax on beer, wines and brandy used in fortifying wines will be introduced in the house by Leader Underwood.

From these taxes it is expected to raise more than $100,000,000 a year to pay the expenses of a war with Mexico.

Congress Votes Wilson $500,000.

Washington, April 24.—President Wilson was given $500,000 by the senate vote to aid in removing American citizens from Mexico. Action was only taken after prolonged debate. The resolution, which has already passed the house, goes to the president for his signature.

Washington, April 24.—The volunteer army reorganization bill, which converts the National Guard of the United States into the army in time of war, was approved by the senate and house conferees.

PREPAREDNESS OF ARMY SHOWN IN MEXICAN CRISIS

65,000 Soldiers Available as Mobile Force and 10,000 at Border.

THE war department at Washington worked out plans for a call for volunteers in case invasion of Mexico became necessary after the fleet was ordered south.

It was understood at the war department that the first call would be for 250,000 men. This would include the military reserves.

Authorization for the call is necessary from congress, under an act to provide for temporarily increasing the military establishment of the United States in time of war.

The volunteers would be apportioned, as far as practicable, among the states and territories and the District of Columbia according to population and would enlist to serve for two years, unless sooner discharged.

The present strength of militia organizations in the United States is 122,974, and the number of men available for military duty reported by adjutant generals from the various states is 16,127,357.

The initial naval move, says a dispatch to the New York Press, would be to throw a cordon of ironclad battleships around every port of the southern republic as a blockade. Other ships would patrol both coasts until not a steamship or vessel of any kind could land a cartridge or rifle. In this the United States would look to the world powers for assistance.

Powers Expected to Agree.

All the powers, it is expected, would agree, tacitly at least, to the blockade. Unless attempts should be made by a third power to break the blockade, there would be no naval engagements. One battleship of the United States navy could take care of the entire Mexican navy, consisting of a few converted yachts and tugboats.

The activities of the navy would be confined to blockading operations and the landing of marines at Vera Cruz and any other port which the army might eventually need as a base.

The boundary line between the United States and Mexico extends about 2,200 miles, from Matamoros to Yuma. Along this border and along the gulf south of San Diego would be thrown a line of 150,000 or more militiamen or border guards, whose only duty would be to defend the American border towns, prevent raids and smuggling and protect the various bases of supplies.

Roosevelt to Be a General?

The first heavy work would be done by the regular army forces, aided by such irregulars as may have had special training in the kind of fighting there would be—such, for example, as the First volunteer cavalry, familiarly known as the Rough Riders. This organization, which has been kept intact since 1898, hoped that it would be made the nucleus of a division and that it would be led into action by Theodore Roosevelt, its first lieutenant colonel, who would be commissioned a major general by President Wilson, it was said.

The regular army has available for service as a mobile force in Mexico about 65,000 men of all arms. This does not include the 20,000 coast artillery nor the soldiers now in the Philippines, Hawaii and the canal zone. In a month after hostilities are declared this force would probably be increased by recruits and drafts on the coast artillery to 80,000 without any impairment of efficiency.

There were 10,000 infantrymen at Texas City and Galveston when the trouble began, for use as the first army of invasion. One day's notice would see them on the transports bound for Vera Cruz, it was said.

The same notice would see every regular United States soldier on this continent on the way to the border. These plans are made. They have been tested. It only required six hours to start for Cuba in the last intervention, and it would not take so long to start for Mexico.

There are upward of 5,000 cavalrymen on the border from Brownsville, Tex., to San Diego, Cal. They are ready for invasion from the north if that should finally be determined on. The navy would be depended on to occupy Campeche, Vera Cruz and Tampico on the east, and Guaymas, Manzanillo, Culiacan and other important west coast ports.

Transports with regulars would be rushed to these towns and garrisons established without it, it is believed, any real fighting. If the Constitutionalists should support Huerta—and they were expected to do so—land invasions would be made through the five northernmost states. Regulars would advance to the capitals of those states, take them and the principal cities and hold them until the militia organizations could be whipped into effective shape for field work.

Air Fleet Ready.

Uncle Sam's aeroplane fleet will be widely used by both the army and navy if necessary. It would be the first real test of these fighting machines in actual conflict between two hostile nations. Airships were used in the Balkan war and in Tripoli, but in neither instance were they given a sufficient tryout to determine their usefulness.

The army's aeroplane fleet has been concentrated at San Diego, Cal., but the exact number of airships at this first real test of these fighting machines in actual conflict between two hostile nations. Airships were used in the Balkan war and in Tripoli, but in neither instance were they given a sufficient tryout to determine their usefulness.

Campaign Against Capital.

The campaign movement would be through Vera Cruz and on to Mexico City. For this an army of from 50,000 to 75,000 men would be needed. Twenty thousand additional, it is believed, would be enough for the work in the north, despite the fact that Villa and his subordinate generals have a well disciplined army in that section.

The peon might upset this plan of an easy victory. Indian and half Indian, they may be persuaded that they would be more enslaved than they have been if the Americans get there. If they could get arms they would be a real factor, as most of them know how to shoot.

Much of the fighting in any campaign in Mexico would be guerrilla warfare. The United States troops could take and garrison the cities and the coast and border towns. How they would keep communication open and eventually restore order so that a stable government could be established there would be the big question that would confront President Wilson.

Seaport Defenses Weak.

There are no forts or artillery, as far as the navy department knows, which would seriously interfere with the capture of the Mexican seaport cities by the American battleships. Where fortifications do exist, as at Vera Cruz, they are of an obsolete type and with few guns, while the forces to handle them have been so depleted to reinforce the federal army in the north that nothing more than a show of resistance could be made against a force of marines.

At the entrance to Vera Cruz har-

THE FINAL BREAK.

The Mexican foreign minister, Señor Portillo, announced that it would be impossible to agree to the demand of the United States that the American flag be unconditionally saluted, because that flag was not insulted, because it was not flying from the American launch and because the American marines were set free even before an investigation and the officer responsible for the arrests was himself arrested and held for trial.

The foreign minister further announced that the Mexican government would agree that both flags be saluted—the American flag first, and then the Mexican flag—this arrangement to be made by a protocol signed by the American Charge d'Affaires Nelson O'Shaughnessy and the Mexican foreign minister.

The United States government, Señor Portillo declared, had refused permission to Mr. O'Shaughnessy to sign such a protocol and demanded an unconditional salute by Mexico, which Mexico felt was incompatible with her dignity.

In conclusion, the minister of foreign affairs said:

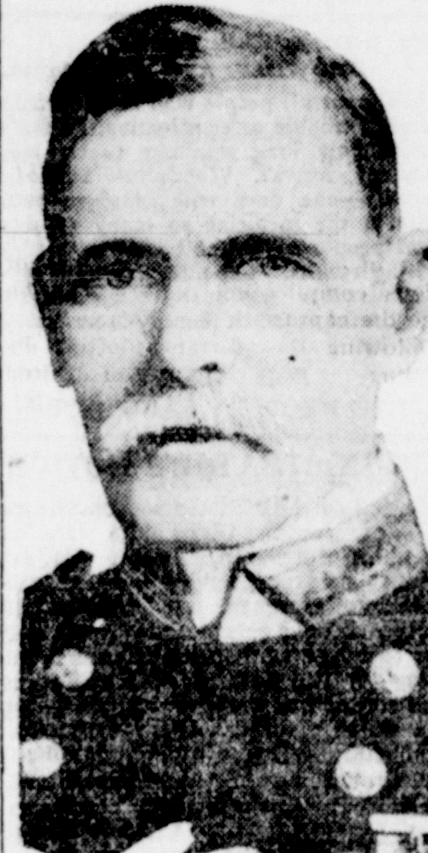

"Mexico has yielded as much as her dignity will permit. Mexico trusts to the fair mindedness and spirit of justice of the American people."

bor the old time fort San Juan de Ulua blocks the way, but its ramparts are of stone and mortar and would soon crumble before a few shots from the fleet. Before the revolution of the past few years Vera Cruz was fairly well equipped with artillery, but most of this has been removed.

Navy department officials felt certain they would be able to capture and hold virtually every port in Mexico with little or no loss of life.

Uncle Sam's Destroyers.

Secretary Daniels gave out at the navy department a statement showing that the number of officers and enlisted men of the navy and the marine corps on warships now in Mexican waters or en route was 22,775. The marines, who would have the advance in a landing operation, numbered 3,970. Thirty-six vessels of all classes will constitute the force on the east coast of Mexico and sixteen vessels of all classes the force on the west coast, commanded by Admiral Thomas B. Howard.

Rear Admiral Blue, acting secretary of the navy, ordered Captain W. S. Sims, in command of the torpedo flotilla at Pensacola, to join the Atlantic fleet in the gulf of Mexico and proceed at once to Tampico.

It is thought that the destroyers may be of great use in case it becomes necessary to establish a blockade, but aside from that the naval strategists are not averse to seizing the opportunity afforded by this sudden mobilization movement to test the soundness of their theories of the proper balance and extent of co-operation between the battleships and the torpedo craft which are designed to protect them as well as to act on the offensive.

May Double Income Tax.

It is known that the United States is better prepared for war today than it was when it went to war with Spain. The treasury department is prepared for heavy drafts upon it. There is more ammunition ready for the use of the army and the navy, and troops are mobilized on the border.

It will cost the United States government millions to blockade the Mexican ports. Should the land as well as the naval forces be used against Mexico the cost would be doubled and probably trebled.

In 1898, following the authorization of $50,000,000, congress revised the internal revenue laws. Should there come a demand for emergency appropriations at this time the Democratic congress would undoubtedly revive the stamp act of 1898 and probably increase the rates of the income tax law.

It is estimated that the income tax if doubled would add $100,000,000 to the war chest, and the special tax might produce as much more, and that this would be ample for the beginning of hostilities.

Some experts in the war department estimate that the calling out of the volunteers and their transportation and maintenance would cost $500,000,000.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just an application of two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.

Ladies! Sage And Quinine Color Hair

An old time French formula to evenly darken gray and faded hair so that detection is impossible, is made principally of selected Sage, properly steeped and mixed with Quinine, which, we all know is a splendid stimulant to the hair roots.

This recipe is also sure to speedily rid the scalp of all dandruff, as well as to drive away that distressing itchiness.

Druggists report that there is a steady demand for Sage and Quinine hair tonic known to the trade as LeMay's Cream of Sage and Quinine, which costs but a trifle, around 50 cents for a large bottle, and is safe, sure and harmless.

Because it restores hair to its natural, youthful beauty without streaking, and contains neither lead nor dye, pharmacists are glad to recommend it. Readers should ask for it by name, LeMay's Cream of Sage and Quinine.

Frequent applications and well rubbed in to the scalp will do wonders—it acts like magic. The hair roots are nourished and stimulated to grow new hair, itching scalp, dandruff and falling hair cease—your head feels fine. Best of all, the hair becomes soft, fluffy, abundant and radiant with life and beauty.

The Grand Promoter

A Stranger Plays Him a Low
Down Trick
By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1914, by Associated Literary Press.

There was some one outside of Major Crofoot's office door.
A knock, knock, knock.
"Come right in!"
"I'm looking for the Major Crofoot that has all sorts of good things to invest in," said the caller.
"Then you have come to the right place. Have a chair."
"Thanks. Now, then, I don't wish to take up your valuable time. Have you got anything good on hand? I want something perfectly safe that will return 9 or 10 per cent on the money."

"My dear sir, I have got half a dozen of the best things going. When you speak of 9 or 10 per cent dividends it makes me smile. I don't deal in such small fish. Anything I take hold of must pay 30 per cent or I drop it."

"Good Lord," ejaculated the caller as he sat up.

"Thirty per cent at least, sir. What would you say to stocks paying dollar for dollar?"

"But I'm willing to take 40 per cent," replied the man. "Gee whiz, but what man can ask for more than that?"

"Very fair, very fair," loftily replied the major, "but nothing to brag of. Being you have come direct to the office I want to pick out something extra. Let me see. The Universal Glass Eye company paid 60 per cent dividends two years ago, but last year dropped down to 30. It will be still less than that this year on account of hard times. Lots of one-eyed people stick a patch over the eye and let it go at that. If you'd come in a month ago I could have let you in on the ground floor of the Magic Rat and Mouse Destroyer. The stock went like wildfire, and the last was sold at $200. We figure it will pay 400 per cent dividends for the next twenty years."

"And I can't get in. Thunder, but why didn't I know about it! But you must have something for me," insisted the caller in anxious tones.

"Let me see! Let me see! How absentminded I am this morning. Just as you knocked I was making up the incorporation papers for my last and best scheme. It's one that'll lay over all others. I was saving it to begin the year on."

"Good, good! What is it? By George, old fellow, if you put me on to something good you shan't lose by it!" "You know what delicacies turtle soup and turtle steak are considered?"

"I do."

"And you know the high price frogs' legs bring?"
"Yes."
"Well, that's the basis of the Great Western company, just organized. We are going to rent nine square miles of Lake St. Clair flats and raise our frogs and turtles and can them on the spot. They will be canned in champagne, and the labels on the cans will be handsome enough to frame and hang in any one's parlor. Three turtle steaks and two dozen frogs' legs every can. Killing and canning take place every day. We shall control the market of the world."

"What dividends do you figure on?"
"Well, last night I was figuring on a straight 100 per cent, but this morning I thought I ought to make a little allowance. Many turtles die of homesickness, you know, and a certain per cent of the frogs are bound to jump the wire fences and get away. To be very safe and conservative I have put the dividends at 95 per cent. I think that is a rather neat figure, don't you?"

"Great! Great Scott, I've been leading money at 4 per cent!"
"How—how much were you thinking of investing?" asked the major in a voice that trembled in spite of himself.

"Twenty thousand dollars perhaps."
"And you—you will pay something down to secure the stock?"
"A hundred dollars. Here's a check I'll endorse over to you, and I'll come in tomorrow and pay the balance and get the stock. By George, but I'm in luck! Just thinking of getting hold of something paying 95 per cent dividends! Why, my wife will think me crazy when I tell her about this. You won't let Morgan buy the whole thing up and freeze me out, will you?"

"No. You shall have the stock."
"And I'll remember you. I'll buy you a pearl pin out of the first dividend. If you want, when you get started, I'll show you how to catch frogs for canning. There's a peculiar way of getting hold of them by one hind leg. Ninety-five per cent! I can't help but dwell on it!"

"Yes, it's a good thing," replied the major as he shoved the folded check into his vest pocket in a careless way. "You will be in tomorrow?"
"Sure, Mike! If I was a Frenchman I'd kiss you for luck, but as I'm not we'll shake hands and I'll say ta, ta. Tomorrow! Ninety-five per cent! Whoop!"

When he had gone the major walked up and down to calm his raging heart. It didn't seem possible. He couldn't credit his good luck. Then at last he took the check from his pocket and looked at it to see what bank it was drawn on. His eyes opened wide, and he uttered a moan and staggered to a seat.

It was drawn in favor of "A. Sucker," endorsed by "Another Sucker" and signed by "Uncle Rubie."
Then the light went out, and the grand promoter bowed his head and knew the bitterness of the green perdition.

At Once Thought of Dad.
A lady once showed her little girl a beautiful new silk dress which had just arrived from the dressmaker, and by way of improving the occasion, she said: "You know, dear, all this was given up by a poor worm." The little girl looked puzzled for a minute or two and then said: "Do you mean dad, mamma?"
